Amendment to the Title

Please delete the current title and substitute the following replacement title:

Method of Aggregating Multiple Individual Print Jobs Having Common
Printing Parameters

Amendment to the Abstract

Please delete the current Abstract and substitute the following replacement Abstract:

Computer-implemented methods for creating an aggregate print job containing multiple individual print jobs. Individual print jobs having a plurality of associated printing parameters are received and stored. Printing parameters associated with an individual print job may include parameters indicating the requested print quantity, product size, product type, a requested delivery date, and any required post-printing processing. The stored printing parameters are searched to identify individual print jobs having at least some printing parameters in common. Individual print jobs identified during the search are aggregated to create a larger print job such that a number of different individual print jobs may be simultaneously printed.
